

ABSTRACT

Ins. A1

A recording medium for a disc etc. according to the present invention comprises at least a first recording region in which a first portion of audio signals supplied is recorded and a second recording region in which a second portion of audio signals supplied is recorded. The first and second portions of the audio signals recorded in the first and second recording regions are synthesized and reproduced or selected and reproduced to realize variegated audio reproduction.